1. On 8 February 1952, the Alte Reiter Kaserne in Ludwigslust (W 54/T 53) was occupied to capacity by troop, most of whom wore red-bordered black epaulets and a few, black-bordered black epaulets. Crews of 1 officer and 12 men practiced with six of the eight 120-mm mortars standing in the barracks yard. In addition, four artillery pieces of about 120-mm were parked there. Four more artillery pieces of the same caliber were towed through the barracks gate by trucks [redacted] 25X1 About 30 soldiers were seen receiving basic infantry training. [redacted]

2. On 8 February, the Neue Reiter Kaserne was occupied to capacity by troops. 15 of the troops wore red-bordered black epaulets and a few, black-bordered black epaulets. Six 120-mm mortars were in the barracks yard.

3. The quarters at Techentin airfield were occupied by 500 to 600 troops with red bordered black epauletts on 8 February. A total of 26 T-34/85 tanks and 14 SP guns with five bogie wheels per side were seen in the billeting area. 25X1

[] Comment. The information on tanks at Techentin airfield is not specific enough to allow the identification of the tank unit or units there. The observation to date of T-34 tanks, JS tanks and SP guns there is indicative of more than one unit. On the other hand, periodic reports never mentioned more than 600 troops as being stationed there. A tentative analysis of the situation at Techentin airfield was given in a previous report. [] 25X1
On the whole, the present report agrees with previous information. []
